

Service-Learning with Patrick Green Ed.D.

Friday April 1, 2011

Holmes Student Center - Lincoln Room

Service-Learning: When to, Why to, HOW to!

General session; registration limited to 30 people.

8:00 AM Registration

8:30 AM– 12:00 PM Session

Service-Learning: Taking it up a Notch

This seminar is targeted to faculty who want to delve more into the philosophical underpinnings of service-learning as related to civic engagement, higher order reasoning, structured reflection, and focusing on the tenets of reciprocity as dictated by the interests of the group. Registration limited to 15 people.

12:30 PM Registration

1:00 – 4:30 PM Session

Online Registration: www.surveymonkey.com/s/patrickgreen

REGISTRATION DEADLINE MARCH 30TH

Or for additional information, please contact:

Lindsey Myers - Student Engagement - 815.753.5969 - LMyers@niu.edu

Sponsors: Office of the Vice Provost - Student Engagement Initiatives, Faculty Development and Instructional Design Center

Patrick Green Ed. D. serves as the Director of the Center for Experiential Learning and Clinical Instructor of Experiential Learning at Loyola University Chicago. With recognitions including Presidential McCormick Civic Engagement Scholar, Engaged Scholar for New Perspectives in Higher Education and Engaged Scholar for Service-Learning he is nationally acknowledged in the area of experiential learning, service-learning, and civic engagement programs in higher education.