

Service-Learning Institute: When the Classroom and Community Collide

Wednesday, May 18th, 2016

9:00 am to 11:30 am

The NIU Service-Learning Institute is an online learning opportunity that provides NIU faculty and staff with an interactive and engaging experience that promotes service-learning pedagogy. Participants will learn from one another and from experts in the field and will have an opportunity to be considered for the NIU Service-Learning Faculty Fellows Program.

Dr. Patrick Green
(Keynote)

Founding Director of Loyola
University Chicago's Center for Experiential Learning
Speaking on a National
Overview of Service-Learning

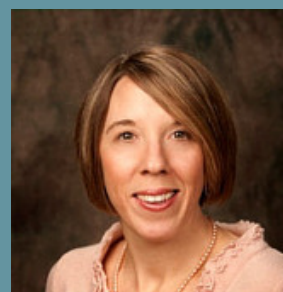

To register go to:
<http://go.niu.edu/SLI2016>

Dr. Alicia Schatteman
Professor Northern Illinois
University
Speaking on Promotion and Tenure Opportunities through Service-Learning.

Destiny McDonald
Assistant Director for Undergraduate Research at Northern Illinois University
Speaking on Critical Reflection

Jennifer Groce
Director for Community Affairs at Northern Illinois University
Speaking on Establishing Relationships with Community
Partners

Haley Gander
Northern Illinois University
Student
Speaking on Service-Learning from the Student's Perspective